Humean Readings

International Conference, Rome 27-28 June 2013

This conference will consist of morning and afternoon sessions devoted to examining the many subjects dealt with in the philosophical work of David Hume, from both a historical and a more strictly philosophical point of view.

Papers in English are therefore invited in the many fields of Hume's philosophy.

The invited speakers this year will be:

Jacqueline Taylor (University of San Francisco)

Dan O'Brien (Oxford Brookes University)

James Harris (University of St Andrews)

Abstracts should be no longer than 300 words. Presentation along with discussion will be limited to about one hour. Deadline for submission of abstracts is May 15th and decisions will be announced by May 20th. Please enclose a short c.v.

Abstracts should be submitted to alessio.vaccari@gmail.com
